Before

After

Got this observation when I asked to check manifest.json file to run project tests to make sure no new issues are introduced by making changes to script generation with Playwright and Typescript

“I used manifest.json to run an extension-integrity check. The manifest parsed, but validation failed because it declares lib/css/all.min.css as a web-accessible resource and that file is missing”